The Religious Press and Mr. Cleveland.

[From the Boston Journal, 15th.]

The religious journals continue to express their views of Mr. Cleveland with a candor which is distressing to Mr. Cleveland's apologists, and with a degree of unianimity which is highly creditable to their loyalty to the cause. For example, the St. Louis Christian Evangelist, after commending Mr. Blaine's promptness in signing the Indiana

police bill, says:

"If Mr. Cleveland would adopt the same course toward those who have made such scandalous accusations of him, he would confer a favor on every citizen who makes it a matter of conscience to vote only for a man whose character is beyond question. He should not allow himself to be defeated by a man whose character is so much in doubt. He should not allow himself to be defeated by a

VOL. 64.

New Moon Wishes.

Once when the new moon glittered

So slender and so fine,

I looked across my shoulder

And a wish stirred my breast.

Over my white right shoulder

I looked at the silver horn,

And wished a wish at even,

To come to pass at morn.

Whenever the new moon glittered,

So slender and so fine,

I looked across my shoulder

And wished that wish of mine!

Now, when the west is rosy,

And the snow-white blush below,

And I see the light white crescent

Sink down and soft and slow.

I never look over my shoulder,

As I used to look before,

For my heart is older and colder,

And now I wish no more!

A GLORIOUS DAY!

In Harrisonburg.

SENATOR RIDDLEBERGER,

DR. WEBB AND CAPT.

LUTY SPEAK.

THE BOURBON SIDE SHOW.

DRAWN A SMALL CROWD.

[From Spirit of the Valley.]

Monday last was emphatically an old-fashioned political day.

The Democrats had extensively advertised that Hon. Walter R.

Staples would be present as one of their speakers, and that announcement caused a larger turnout of Democrats than usual. Judge

Staples for some, to us, unknown cause failed to put in an appearance, much to the disappointment of the majority of his political friends. They occupied the East side of the Court House, and the crowd worried along listening to local talent. Hon. John T. Hon.

Chas. T. and several lesser lights joined the air, and straddled the tariff question until about four o'clock.

The Republicans occupied the Court House, filling every inch of space, and very many of our voters were unable to obtain admission.

The Mt. Sidney band discoursed some excellent music from the gallery, after which our gallant
